Our plan for the 2020 election

Fredric V.

don't need to strike this time to move forward; we just need to vote and convince our family, friends and neighbors to do the same.

Barring a miraculous 180-degree reversal on the part of the Trump administration with respect to its views on the Postal Service (it favors privatization, service cuts and damaging deregulation) and our collective-bargaining rights (it has proposed stripping them from us), NALC will need to decide whether to endorse one of the Democratic candidates running for president. Equally important, we will need to fight for a pro-letter carrier majority in the Senate to match the pro-letter carrier majority in the House of Representatives.

In practical terms, this means re-electing the majority of Democrats and Republicans who support us in the House and fighting for a change of leadership in the Senate. Majority Leader Mitch McConnell and our Republican committee leadership have utterly failed to take up desperately needed postal reform legislation over the past several Congresses. Worse, they oppose bipartisan legislation that is expected to pass the House and that would finally repeal the retiree health pre-funding mandate that has distorted postal finances over the past 14 years. Meanwhile, the current Senate leadership is blocking all pro-worker legislation that passed the House in 2019 (a minimum wage hike and a law to make union organizing easier, for example).

We need major change in Washington and the 2020 general election is our best opportunity to make it happen.

Thanks to all the NALC members listed in this issue of The Postal Record—the ones who have stepped up to contribute money to the Letter Carrier Political Fund—we have the resources to fight

I'm not going to say that the upcoming election is the most important of our lives, because for letter carriers every election is important. But I will say that it is the most important election since 1968 when it comes to the future of the Postal Service.

Back then, a debate was raging over whether to create a public postal corporation—and whether postal employees deserved the right to collective bargaining. It took the leadership of the NALC—and a nationwide wildcat strike—to settle those issues in our favor.

This year, as we celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Great Postal Strike, we are once again at a crossroads when it comes to the future of the Postal Service. We for this change. Our political action committee, the Letter Carrier Political Fund (LCPF), is funded by volunteer contributions from members who want to help candidates from both major parties who support letter carriers and the Postal Service. We use these resources to aid candidates who back us on the issues that unite us as workers, regardless of our own political affiliations and philosophies. That support comes in many forms: campaign donations, campaign volunteers, release staff for the AFL-CIO's get-out-the-vote efforts and independent expenditures to promote voter registration and vote-by-mail. I express my deep appreciation to the thousands of active and retired members who contributed in 2019 for making this possible.

We will need to work with the next president, and now is the time to start thinking about whom that should be. For that reason, NALC already has distributed our candidate questionnaire to all the Democrats and Republicans running for president. The survey covers all the major issues we care about as workers—policies on the Postal Service, such as six-day and door delivery and the unfair pre-funding mandate, as well as the candidates' views on our workplace rights and benefits. We will publish the candidates' answers to our questionnaire in the April Postal Record.

Guided by a variety of factors, we will consider whether and when to make an endorsement among the various presidential candidates. These factors will include the results of our Postal Record reader poll (via a postcard to be included in the April issue), the findings of a scientific opinion poll of NALC members, and the conclusions of the Executive Council after a discussion about the quality of the candidates' responses to our questionnaire and about their electability, experience and relationship with our union.

Our endorsements, for president and other federal offices, will be based on issues affecting our jobs and work life, not on social or cultural issues that, while important, can be divisive to many of our members. Letter carriers perfectly reflect the political diversity of the United States. I see the diversity of opinion within our membership as one of our strengths. But the union's endorsement—and how we use our LCPF funds—will be dictated by what's best for the jobs, pay and benefits of letter carriers. That is how we will preserve our unity, build our strength and make progress.

Of course, letter carriers, like all other voters, will make up their own minds on what's most important when they vote. Our role is simply to educate members about the candidates' views on the issues that affect our members as letter carriers.

Thanks again to all the members who have helped make the Letter Carrier Political Fund such a potent tool for advancing the interests of America's active and retired letter carriers.

Tale from the beat, Part 3

Philip Dine

This involves a single—albeit months-long—reporting episode. As before, the aim is to offer insight into journalists and their travails for those of you who deal with the media, or just some change-of-pace reading on a chilly winter day.

Communist authorities erected the Berlin Wall in August 1961 to divide East and West Berlin. It did precisely that for 28 years, before it fell in November 1989—sparking German reunification, Communism's demise in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union's collapse.

Hard to believe, but the 30th anniversary of the Wall's destruction occurred two months ago as I write this. Harder still to believe: This anniversary marks the first time the Wall has been down longer than it stood as a symbol of the Cold War.

In February 1989, I was covering the AFL-CIO's executive council meeting in Florida. Hoping to justify my newspaper's decision to send me, one morning I approach Al Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, who's relaxing by the hotel pool. I do so with trepidation; I'm a new labor reporter, he's a legendary figure in the labor movement, having vaulted to national prominence after leading the 1968 New York City teachers strike. And he's famously gruff.

Lacking the knowledge to ask an actual question, but hoping to tap into his experience as head of the AFL-CIO's International Affairs Committee, I throw a Hail Mary: "What's going on in the world that nobody knows about?"

His response fascinates me: Independent labor movements are quietly forming in Hungary, Bulgaria and elsewhere in the Eastern bloc, challenging the government-run unions. If they blossom, they could delegitimize the Communist regimes, allegedly built on working-class support.

Hungary's Liga, the strongest autonomous movement, is expanding from scientists and academics to industrial workers and taxi drivers. The AFL-CIO is trying to subtly help the fledgling efforts, says Shanker, who is about to be designated to lead a new panel to forge ties with the rebel unions. Meanwhile, three AFL-CIO staffers have just returned from Budapest after lending support—a delicate exercise that could easily boomerang.

This is a chance to use the labor beat to break major news, so I write about it. My editors hold the story for days before finally burying it inside the paper.

Inexplicably encouraged, I call Pal Forgacs in Budapest, a Shanker acquaintance who runs the Liga. He speaks about worker restiveness bubbling throughout the region. I write about him as well.

A top editor, now convinced I'm dialing Hungarians at random, runs the story but asks me to refrain from using information gathered in Florida to cover Eastern Europe for a St. Louis audience.

Fast forward to fall, 1989: I'm in Western Europe reporting on economics, when the same editor alerts me that thousands of East Germans "vacationing" in Hungary are fleeing to Austria, and that Eastern Europe might be unraveling. Go there, he orders; nary a word that maybe I'd been onto something months ago.

I land the next day in Budapest, and shortly I'm in Liga activist Mihaly Csako's tiny apartment, bookshelves crammed with tomes about working-class issues, taking notes on what he's saying about the role of the maverick unions.

At Hungary's Austrian border, I interview East Germans as they escape; Hungary's leaders having removed the barbed wire barrier. In late September I'm in tense East Berlin, secret police and security forces everywhere to quell any rebellion—making reporting a dangerous endeavor.

Protestant churches are a place where politics are discussed, though cloaked in religious allegories. At a service, I try to be inconspicuous while taking notes in the notepad hidden in my pocket as the reverend uses a story about Moses to discuss freedom.

As parishioners exit, I approach two couples in their 30s, seeking insight into East Germans' hopes and fears. I identify myself as an American journalist.

One of the women glares at me, then instructs the others not to talk. "You're a state security officer," she says; I wasn't praying, I was looking around, and I speak German.

I protest, but she's unmoved.

One of the men eventually tests my knowledge of St. Louis jazz and blues music, then tells the others: "I believe he's genuine."

Emotions pour from the woman: "We are not free. This is no life," she tells me. "It will take a long time, many years, for changes. We will all be old."

In October, Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev visits East Berlin and urges the hardline leaders to show restraint; in early November, the wall opens and the world changes. But I'm back in St. Louis—my brilliant editors sure that writing the West European economics story is the priority.

Time to register for the 2020 food drive

If your branch hasn't done so already, it's time to register for the 28th annual Letter Carriers' "Stamp Out Hunger"® Food Drive.

The food drive—the country's largest one-day food-collection event—takes place on the second Saturday each May. This year, that's Saturday, May 9.

"Registering for the drive promptly and completely is essential for such a large-scale operation as this," NALC President Fredric Rolando said. "Early registration helps us get a head start on the printing and distribution of postcards, and it allows us to more accurately calculate how many postcards each branch will need."

Registering is easy via the NALC website's "Members Only" portal. Find the link to the Members Only portal at nalc.org in the upper right-hand corner of the page. Once you've logged in, click on the "Stamp Out Hunger" icon to register. Once registered, branches can use the portal to order promotional materials. Only branch presidents on record will have access to the food drive registration forms, so if you are a newly elected president, make sure that your branch has notified NALC Headquarters.

The registration deadline to guarantee that your branch will receive the food drive reminder is March 9.

Later this month, Rolando will mail letters to branches that have not yet registered, encouraging them to get involved with this year's drive. A registration form will be included with the letter, for the convenience of those who aren't comfortable signing up electronically.

Whether you decide to register electronically or by mail, remember that the deadline to register is March 9. Saturday, May 9, will be here before you know it.

Helping hands

NALC is proud to welcome back last year's partners for the 2020 drive: the U.S. Postal Service, the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union (UFCW), the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association, the AFL-CIO, United Way Worldwide, the Kellogg Co., CVS Health and the direct-mail marketing companies Valpak and Valassis.

Last year, active and retired letter carriers, helped by thousands of co-workers, other union brothers and sisters, family members, friends and additional volunteers, collected and distributed 75.7 million pounds of food to pantries, shelters and churches in their communities, bringing the grand total since the food drive began in 1992 to more than 1.75 billion pounds.

Have a local sponsor?

Branches are encouraged to find local sponsors to produce bags that can be distributed to residents so they have a convenient way to place their food donations next to their mailboxes. Historically, distributing specially marked food drive bags has translated into dramatic increases in food donations, so branches shouldn't wait until the last minute to place a bag order. That's all the more so because bag production doesn't start until the orders and payments start rolling in.

In many locales, businesses such as grocery stores, car dealerships and banks can benefit from the naturally positive exposure that comes from association with the food drive. As a result, many such businesses are more than willing to contribute money toward the cost of bag production. (For companies that manufacture bags, see the box at right.)

Stay on top of the latest food drive news at nalc.org/food, and follow the food drive on Facebook at facebook.com/StampOutHunger and on Twitter at @StampOutHunger.

If your branch has any questions, please call NALC's Community Services at 202-662-2489 or send an email to fooddrivesocial@nalc.org. PR

Playing post office in an internet world

There's no denying that today's children are drawn to phones and tablets. According to a survey by education group Common Sense Media, a child age eight or younger spends an average of two hours and 18 minutes in front of a glowing screen every day. Many learn to send messages on a phone or computer before they learn how to write on paper or send a letter.

Screens are now part of growing up, but exposure to mail can help young children develop literacy and could lead them to embrace the mail's role in communication later in life.

Interacting with the mail can have a positive effect on young children. It can help them with reading and writing skills and improve their sense of cooperation with others. When kids play the game "post office" by writing, sorting and sending pretend letters and packages, they are using what educators call "dramatic play" to understand how communication works in a tangible way. It helps children understand the many uses for literacy beyond books. Some children also experience this tangible communication by writing a letter to Santa Claus or their grandparents, or by greeting their letter carrier at the door.

These early experiences seem to last into adulthood, even for children growing up in the Internet age. USPS research has shown that the Millennial generation appreciates and enjoys receiving mail even more than do older generations (see the October 2018 Postal Record for more information).

A look into the postal window

Writing and receiving letters, playing post office and seeing letter carriers at the front porch aren't the only way children experience the mail for the first time. Some schoolchildren get a peek inside the world of the mail with the help of letter carriers.

When a local class of pre-kindergarten and kindergarten students in Kansas City, MO, asked post office supervisors to send postal employees to explain to the students how the mail works, managers turned to veteran Kansas City Branch 30 letter carriers Sue Findley-Rinehart and Sheri Greathouse, who began carrying mail in 1986 and 1989, respectively. The duo visited a classroom at Northland Christian School to tell the curious youngsters, who were learning how to write and mail letters, what happens to their mail after they put it in a mailbox.

"They had all written letters to their parents, and we mailed them all," Findley-Rinehart said. "They were excited."

The carriers kept the presentation simple. "We told them how we pick up their mail," Findley-Rinehart said, "and [that] it goes through a processing center. We told them it was a big house where they sort the mail, and then the mail comes to a different carrier the next day and they deliver the mail."

The children enjoyed participating in the process by writing and mailing their own letters, though kids of that age have their own priorities: "They all wanted to feel the [postal] patches on our coats."

When students from the Will Rogers Preschool in Tulsa, OK, wanted to see up close how the mail works, letter carrier Henry Corley gave them a tour of his station. Supervisors chose him because of his outgoing personality. "They wanted somebody who can make it interesting and fun at the same time," he said.

A member of Tulsa Branch 1358, Corley started carrying the mail in 2008 after serving in the Army in Afghanistan and Iraq (he now is a reservist). On the day of the tour, Corley showed the kids every step of the delivery process.

"Kids are great because at that age, they say whatever's on their mind," Corley said. "They asked a lot of questions. Where does the mail go? How long does it take to get somewhere? Why do I wear gloves?"

Seeing how the mail is handled, cased and readied for delivery was one thing for the students, but the best part came last: "They were so excited about the postal truck," he said.

Corley relied on his experience of having a mother who taught school. "I'm a people person. I try my best to make everybody comfortable," Corley said. "That's why I love being on the street and delivering mail." PR

One of Lawrence's kids rides down the man-made sledding slope outside his house.

Doug Lawrence

and I discovered that, indeed, you can build your own snow gun."

With a pressure washer and air

Making it SNOW

Doug Lawrence lives in the snowiest city in the United States, (and one of the snowiest in the world) but he wanted more of the white stuff. Using instructions from the Internet, Lawrence, a letter carrier in Syracuse, NY, since 1997, built his own snow machine so he and his children can sled all winter long.

Syracuse gets an average of 126 inches of snow a year, the most among U.S. cities with a population of 50,000 or more and among the top five anywhere. (The others are in Japan or Canada.) The abundance of snow is attributable to the warm moisture rising from Lake Ontario and meeting blasts of freezing air coming south from Canada. Lawrence's home has a great sledding hill and he has two young daughters who love to slide down it, but repeated sledding can melt it fast.

"I'm a skier—I know that they make snow at the ski resorts," he said, "so I looked online compressor he already owned, Lawrence found the rest of the required parts—some valves, hoses and other plumbing equipment—and put together a snow-making machine using instructions he found on the Internet. With it, he keeps his sledding track usable all winter long. He makes several inches of snow and shovels it onto sledding tracks. When the tracks get thin and nature hasn't done its part, he blows more snow.

All he needs is cold air.

"It has to be roughly 28 degrees or colder" to make artificial snow, he said. The daily low temperatures in Syracuse can drop below 28 degrees for nearly half of the year, giving Lawrence many opportunities to make fresh snow. "When you do make it, man-made snow lasts 10 times longer than natural snow because the crystals are really compact."

When the first cold snap of fall comes, usually in November, Lawrence turns on the snow machine and builds a base of snow that, with more snow added from time to time, can last all winter, even as warm air returns periodically and melts the natural snow in his neighbors' yards.

"This year, we had below 28 degrees in the middle of November, so I was able to make and build our giant sledding track for my now six-year-old daughter's birthday party," Lawrence said. With the occasional blast of the snow gun to freshen up the sledding track, he added, the fun should last until April.

The snow machine relies on simple science to make snow. It sprays tiny water droplets into the cold air under pressure. The sudden drop in pressure as the droplets hit the air reduces their temperature, freezing them instantly into tiny spheres of ice. It's the same basic physics used by air conditioners. Because the crystals from a machine are small and compact compared to the beautiful, delicate flakes of natural snow, man-made snow lasts much longer.

Lawrence's wife is a high school physics teacher, so the family has used the snow gun to teach the kids about physics. "All of this is science," he said. "When my oldest daughter was three and a half, she could explain surface area relative to volume."

Lawrence, his children and their friends love sledding on the snow he makes, of course, but Lawrence said children aren't the point.

"The kids? Me! This is for me, man," he said. "The kids will get cold and go inside, and I stay outside and keep going." PR

Right: Lawrence made his snow machine from plans found on the internet.

Boston, Los Angeles selected as convention sites for 2024, 2026

The NALC Executive Council has announced the sites and dates for two upcoming national conventions following the one in Chicago on Aug. 8-12, 2022. The Council voted to hold the 74th national convention in Boston from Aug. 5-9, 2024, and the 75th convention in Los Angeles from Aug. 3-7, 2026.

Certain minimum requirements are crucial for potential host cities to make a successful bid for a convention that can bring between 5,500 and 8,000 delegates—requirements that eliminate many cities that lack facilities large enough to hold an NALC convention. To find and help the Executive Council select potential sites, the Convention Site Committee considers the following criteria:

- The convention facilities must have theater seating for approximately 8,000 delegates, as well as space for registration, voting, committee functions, workshops and more.

- NALC requires at least 3,500 hotel rooms, with preference given to unionized hotels.

- All of these must be available during NALC's constitutionally mandated convention window, between the Fourth of July and the third full week of August. PR

Honoring heroic carriers

Heroism, like the mail, comes in many packages—think of police officers or firefighters. But for some citizens in need of assistance, their heroes come in the form of concerned letter carriers.

Letter carriers are members of nearly every community in this nation and know when something is wrong. Spotting fires and injuries, they often are the first to respond. The following stories document their heroism. For them, delivering for America is all in a day's work.

Family, including pets, rescued from house fire

City Carrier Assistant and Worcester, MA Branch 12 member Michael Ciccone had just finished his route on Dec. 10, 2019, when “a little girl ran up to my truck, crying,” he recalled. When he asked what was wrong, she told him that her house was on fire, and people were still inside.

The CCA sprang into action, dialing 911 as he ran towards the burning building. Inside the house, Ciccone found two women and a dog, and guided them outside. “The smoke [on the first floor] was stomach-level—you couldn’t see anything below your waist,” he said.

After they had been rescued, they told the CCA that another woman was still trapped in the basement. He tried to access the basement door, but encountered heavy smoke in the stairwell and was forced to retreat. Undaunted, Ciccone went around to the back door and was able to enter and rescue the woman, who turned out to be the 90-year-old homeowner. He then remained on the scene with the residents until the fire crews arrived.

During his search, the CCA also had learned that cats were trapped inside the house. He told the firefighters, who were able to save almost all of the cats. The story had another happy ending: thanks to Ciccone’s prompt call to emergency services, the firefighters “did save the house,” he said. All the family members came through with no injuries.

Ciccone later was interviewed by the Worcester Telegram and Gazette and the Sentinel and Enterprise, in addition to being recognized by the fire department at a ceremony with the mayor. When asked how he felt about all the attention, Ciccone said, “It’s overwhelming. I was just in the right place at the right time.” He continued, “The best part was helping the little girl, because I could tell how scared she was. I’d do it again in a second.”

Michael Ciccone (center) was recognized at a ceremony hosted by the fire department for his efforts to get family members Lorraine Camataris (l) and her granddaughter Diana McCloud (r) out of their home when it caught on fire in December.

Carrier receives acclaim for helping child

As Honeoye Falls, NY Branch 4747 member Kim Neder Carey was delivering to an apartment complex on her route on Sept. 4, 2019, she was greeted by a 7-year-old boy, who ran down the stairs towards her, crying.

The 23-year carrier asked if he was all right, or if she could do anything to help him, but the boy explained that he was not supposed to speak to strangers. After he thought about it, he added, "Well, I kind of know you—you are the mail lady and you deliver our mail every day." Once she confirmed that, he trusted her and explained that he couldn't find his hide-away key and was locked out of his apartment.

Neder Carey convinced him to come with her and explain the situation to the building's office manager. After speaking to the manager, the carrier also was able to get in contact with the boy's father—it turned out that it was the boy's first day of school, and he had accidentally gotten onto the bus instead of staying for his after-school program. The parents were relieved to learn that he was safe, and they immediately came to pick him up.

The boy's mother subsequently posted a lengthy thank you to the Honeoye Fall Community Facebook page, and other community members chimed in with stories about Neder Carey, describing her as a wonderful letter carrier and person.

Moved by her community's outpouring of good wishes, she said, "I thought [the Facebook page] was very sweet—it's nice to be recognized for the positive role letter carriers play in the community, since we usually only hear about the bad things." But Neder

Carey underplayed her generosity in helping out the stranded child, stating, "I don't think I went out of my way—I think all my fellow carriers would have done the same and gotten the little boy help."

Alert carrier stops a fire from spreading

"It was a quiet night," Buffalo-Northwestern NY Branch 3 member Gregory Smith recalled about his route on Nov. 18, 2019. But the silence of the evening was interrupted by a "faint beeping sound, like a smoke detector," the seven-year carrier said.

Concerned that it might be a fire alarm, Smith investigated the source of the noise by walking around a few of the nearby houses. He eventually traced the noise to a house that had recently been sold. When the carrier peered in through the window, he immediately noticed a "smoky haze." He realized that the house was slowly filling with smoke and called 911.

While he waited for the firefighters to arrive, Smith walked around the property, banging on the windows and calling out as he went, in an attempt to alert anyone who might be inside. The building was vacant, however, and when the firetrucks arrived, the firefighters were able to put out the fire before significant damage was done to the structure.

The fire department later posted about the incident on its Facebook page, explaining that the fire had been started by a malfunctioning heating unit and praising the carrier for his vigilance. Asked about how it felt to be recognized for his actions, Smith simply stated: "Feels rewarding." He continued, "I'm out here every day, just trying to look out for the people on my route and help my customers." PR

Eye on the elderly

It was heading back to the post office after a normal day" of delivering mail, Fall River, MA Branch 51 member Christopher Fletcher recalled about July 30, 2019. He was driving past a customer's house when he saw the customer, an elderly man, fall backwards onto his driveway. "He whacked his head on the pavement," the three-year carrier recalled, "so my instinct was to stop and help him out." After securing his vehicle, Fletcher ran over to assess the situation and called 911 once he saw that the man was bleeding from his head wound. The man was bleeding so heavily, in fact, that the carrier decided he couldn't wait for the ambulance to arrive. "I have EMT training," he said, "so I was able to provide first aid until the paramedics got there." Fletcher was able to get the bleeding under control and the man stabilized before the emergency workers took over. Once the carrier informed the EMTs about the situation, he returned to the post office. Taunton police visited the post office in October to recognize Fletcher for his exemplary handling of the situation, but he was reluctant to accept praise for his actions. "I didn't do it because I knew I would get recognition," he said. "I think it's just what any decent person would do."

On Sept. 19, 2019, Pasadena, CA Branch 2200 member Nicolas Ortiz Jr. was making his delivery rounds when he noticed a dangerous scene unfolding behind a parked vehicle. An elderly man, Paul Christianson, had fallen behind the vehicle in his driveway, and was unable to get up or alert anyone. "His driveway is steep," the five-year carrier said, "but I could just see a little bit of the driveway and noticed him as I drove by. Thankfully, I was in the right place at the right time." Christianson lived alone, so if Ortiz had not seen him, his situation would have been dire. The carrier repeatedly tried to get the older man on his feet, but "he just couldn't get back up, and I realized this wasn't going to help him," he said. So he called 911 and waited with Christianson until paramedics arrived to take him to the hospital. Christianson fully recovered from his ordeal, and messaged Ortiz with grateful words of thanks.

But Ortiz takes the praise in stride: "I just call it being a Good Samaritan," he said. "It feels great to know that I was able to be there for him. One day, when I retire, I hope my fellow letter carriers will be around for me."

On Sept. 18, 2019, Rochester, NY Branch 210 member Jason Hasbrouck was delivering mail to a customer's house when he saw that the customer's door was wide open, with keys in the door. "That was really unusual, because the customer is elderly," the six-year carrier explained. When Hasbrouck looked inside, he found the customer lying on the ground. "I called out to him, and he was barely conscious," he said. The man also was surrounded by melted groceries—he had fallen the night before after tripping on his walker and had not been able to move since. Hasbrouck called 911 and waited with the customer until paramedics arrived. The responders later stated that Hasbrouck likely had saved the man's life by investigating the open door and calling emergency services. But the carrier was modest: "I'm not a hero," he said. "I just did what any other person would have done."

"I was doing a route in Canton, [MI] when I saw the woman lying in her driveway," Western Wayne County, MI Branch 2184 member Peter Duncan recalled about the events of Sept. 23, 2019. He stopped his vehicle and rushed over to the customer, who turned out to be an 86-year-old woman named Helen. The first-year carrier found her conscious but unable to move her limbs. Helen told him that she had fallen and struck her head on the pavement; she had been lying there for almost an hour before he saw her. Duncan quickly called 911 and waited with Helen until EMTs arrived on the scene. The woman had suffered a serious head contusion from her fall, but has since fully recovered. Duncan, who was a police officer for 20 years before joining the post office, was enthused by the opportunity to help. "I love working for the citizens and the community," he said. "Just because I've changed jobs doesn't mean that that's changed." PR

BUILDING SUPPORT IN CONGRESS

LETTER CARRIERS ARE DELIVERING THE MESSAGE IN WASHINGTON

As we all know, Congress has a great deal of power over us and our employer, the U.S. Postal Service (USPS). But every member of Congress who seeks to abolish our collective-bargaining rights, cut our pay or limit our health and retirement benefits faces numerous lawmakers who seek to protect letter carriers, stabilize USPS and ensure that we continue to provide the public services relied upon by American households and businesses.

Our base of support is growing, because of the hard work of letter carriers in building and maintaining relationships. The attacks come and go, but letter carriers persevere.

For example, in 2018, the White House convened a special postal task force. Among many harmful proposals in the task force's report, it specifically called for heavy cuts to delivery service and for an end to the right of letter carriers and other postal employees to negotiate pay, benefits and working conditions through a union, among other ill-conceived proposals. It also praised privatized postal systems overseas.

In response, both the House of Representatives and the Senate introduced resolutions calling for the Postal Service to remain an independent establishment of the federal government, rebuking the call for privatization. Those resolutions have garnered a bipartisan majority in both the House and Senate over the last two Congresses.

In addition, White House budget proposals continue to come and go every year—with recent ones calling for drastic changes to the Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS), including increased employee contributions, elimination of cost-of-living adjustments (COLAs), elimination of annuity supplements for those under 62, reducing the Thrift Savings Plan's G-fund interest rate, and the basing of annuities on workers' highest average annual salary over five years (high-5) instead of over the highest three years (high-3).

Congress continues to reject these ideas when setting budget priorities each year. Congress's refusal to incorporate these cuts is directly attributable to the constant chorus of opposition communicated to lawmakers by NALC members and the coordinated efforts with the federal-postal community. This active defense is yet another victory worth celebrating, but it also can be used for offense.

As the second session of the 116th Congress begins, NALC continues to build upon successes. NALC's four priority resolutions not only achieved a majority of support in their respective chambers, but now have more co-sponsors signed on to them than ever before:

- House Resolution 23, calling for continued door delivery, had 257 co-sponsors (204 Democrat, 53 Republican)* at press time.
- House Resolution 33 and Senate Resolution 99, calling for USPS to remain a public agency and not be subject to privatization, had 267 House co-sponsors (224 Democrat, 43 Republican)* and 53 Senate co-sponsors (43 Democrat, 8 Republican, 2 Independent), respectively, at press time.
- House Resolution 54, calling for continued six-day mail delivery, had 291 co-sponsors (216 Democrat, 75 Republican)* at press time.
- House Resolution 60, calling for a restoration of service standards, had 203 co-sponsors (176 Democrat, 27 Republican)* at press time.

*Rep. Jeff Van Drew (R-NJ) changed parties from Democrat to Republican, which has not been reflected on congress.gov.

The high level of support for these priority resolutions is not our only accomplishment; the 116th Congress also saw the introduction of one of the most significant pieces of postal legislation in years.

Repealing the mandate to pre-fund retiree health is at the top of NALC's legislative agenda. The mandate, which no other agency or company faces, is responsible for 90 percent of the financial losses incurred by the Postal Service since 2007.

The USPS Fairness Act (H.R. 2382), introduced in April 2019 by Reps. Peter DeFazio (D-OR), Tom Reed (R-NY), Xochitl Torres Small (D-NM) and Brian Fitzpatrick (R-PA), would repeal the mandate that USPS pre-fund decades' worth of health benefits for its future retirees, enacted through the Postal Accountability and Enhancement Act (PAEA) of 2006. The legislation is now heading to the House floor, and a Senate companion bill introduced by Sens. Steve Daines (R-MT) and Brian Schatz (D-HI) as S. 2965 is gaining traction.

"The momentum on repeal is a monumental achievement and would not have been possible without supportive members of Congress who are educated on our issues by our letter carrier activists," NALC President Fredric Rolando said. "Getting this important legislation to the finish line is not guaranteed in the 116th Congress, which is why we will continue laying the groundwork for its success in the near future. That will require more education and more relationship building, which LCPF allows us to do in Washington and in congressional districts around the country."

We have the power

Ultimately, Congress will decide whether to promote beneficial legislation and defend letter carriers and the Postal Service against attacks. That is why NALC's year-round engagement of letter carrier activists from across the country, who educate lawmakers on both sides of the aisle on the value of USPS to all Americans, is pivotal. The work they do in lawmakers' home states and districts is the foundation of NALC's ongoing legislative and political efforts.

"Congress is the Postal Service's de facto board of directors—535 people who have enormous power over our jobs and our future," President Rolando said. "Not only do they have near-total control over the Postal Service, they also legislate many of our benefits, including retirement and health care, and set the bounds of our collective-bargaining rights."

Lawmakers are willing to listen to a workforce that is consistently rated as the most trustworthy in all of the federal government, with a 90 percent public favorability rating. They learn about the unmatched services we provide. They learn about our daily acts of heroism and humanitarianism on our routes in their communities. They learn that what is good for the Postal Service and its employees is good for their constituents and the American people as a whole.

As for those who are unwilling to listen, refuse to learn and do not support us, the power held over jobs isn't a one-way street. Every two years, each seat in the House and one-third of Senate seats are up for grabs. Letter carriers need lawmakers in those seats who support letter carriers and are committed to maintaining a strong and innovative Postal Service.

The power of LCPF

We want to continue helping to elect House and Senate candidates who will protect the interests of letter carriers, but we cannot do it without your help. Federal law prohibits union dues from being used to support candidates for political office, so NALC relies 100 percent on voluntary member contributions to the Letter Carrier Political Fund (LCPF). LCPF may accept contributions only from NALC members and family members. With letter carrier help, we have the opportunity to build the electoral and legislative power required to ensure that decisions affecting letter carriers' lives are made with our best interests in mind.

Through the LCPF, we are able to amplify our voices every two years and send a strong message to lawmakers seeking reelection and candidates who seek to join the halls of Congress—we support those who support us, regardless of political party. Those who seek to destroy our rights and dismantle our employer need not apply.

LCPF is NALC's non-partisan political action committee (PAC), which is authorized to accept voluntary political donations from NALC members. Using these collective funds, NALC can amplify our message on Capitol Hill, promote our priorities and identify those who will champion letter carrier issues in Congress.

In the 2018 midterm elections for the 116th Congress, a wave of pro-worker candidates from both parties, in addition to reliable incumbent allies—Democratic and Republican alike—were elected or re-elected to Congress. Because of LCPF, NALC was able to help most of these campaigns, and we can see the results that this help has brought us.

How LCPF works

LCPF builds NALC's clout on Capitol Hill in various ways. It provides direct support to candidates' campaigns, giving them resources they need to communicate with voters, and devotes resources to working get-out-the-vote efforts. This vital effort involves direct member engagement through coordinated work with our brothers and sisters in the labor movement. LCPF also offers communications, education and regular outreach throughout the election cycle to our members so they are well-informed about everything they need to know about their states, such as voter registration, early-voting/absentee/vote by mail, candidates, issues and policies.

As we draw near a presidential election this November, LCPF will devote the necessary resources to ensure that the next leader in the White House is one who supports letter carriers and can hear our voices loud and clear.

Elections are important, have consequences and are very expensive. The Center for Responsive Politics estimates that nearly $6.8 billion was spent in 2016 on federal elected offices (including $2.7 billion on the presidential election alone).

It takes a lot of money for a candidate to campaign for office and the table of any given candidate's financial backers can be very broad and have a wide range of issues on which they want support. They can range from labor unions to environmental groups, from defense contractors to health care companies, or from agricultural interests to billionaires with pet projects. Many of these people and organizations have very deep pockets and are difficult to compete with. LCPF is a small yet effective piece of the puzzle and ensures that letter carriers are at the table, as opposed to being on the menu. To be there, we need to rely, as all unions do, on our power in numbers, and we need all of our members there with us to make a difference.

How to support LCPF

The easiest way to support LCPF is to sign up for automatic withdrawal of a small amount from your paycheck each pay period through PostalEASE.

"Most of our supporters use automatic payroll deductions, and it works well for them and for the Political Fund," Rolando said. "It spaces the total donation across the year—you won't even notice it—and it gives LCPF a steady source of income and the ability to plan how to best use the funds."

Both career carriers and city carrier assistants (CCAs) may sign up for LCPF donations through payroll deduction. CCAs must sign up again following a five-day break in service, and former CCAs who have converted to career status must sign up again following their conversion.

Active or retired letter carriers also can easily arrange for automatic deductions from a bank account or annuity.

NALC members have the option of making one-time contributions, or supplementing their automatic donations, by writing a check to the Letter Carrier Political Fund.

To sign up or get more information on how to donate, visit nalc.org/pac.

"As a union, our strength is in our numbers," Rolando said. "Thanks to LCPF donors, NALC has an essential tool for standing up for all of us in Washington, DC. I urge every letter carrier to add his or her name to the list of LCPF supporters to make our success in protecting our jobs, our employer and our rights even greater." PR

COMPLIANCE 101

Increasing PAC participation without breaking any rules

NALC members help the effort to elect pro-letter carrier candidates by encouraging fellow carriers to make contributions to the Letter Carrier Political Fund. By recruiting active and retired NALC members to become PAC contributors, we ensure that those who are elected to represent us in Washington will be champions for letter carriers and the issues that matter most to us.

Whether you are a seasoned PAC recruiter or planning your first fundraising event, the tips below address some of the most important rules that govern LCPF. If you have any questions or concerns, NALC's Department of Legislative and Political Affairs can help make sure that you comply with the appropriate regulations—and that we continue to build up this crucial tool.

Who can give?

- NALC members
- Staffers employed by NALC
- Immediate family members of the above

Letter carriers and the Hatch Act

NALC encourages all members to be engaged in a wide range of political activities to advance the letter carrier agenda.

But...it is important to keep in mind that all active letter carriers, career and non-career alike, are federal employees, and so your political activities are governed by the Hatch Act—including online activities that involve social media (for example, Facebook and Twitter) as well as e-mail.

In general: Be off the clock, out of uniform (and out of government vehicles) and away from the workplace whenever you engage in any partisan political activity. And, make sure that the activity is in a permissible category.

If you have questions or concerns that are not covered here, do not hesitate to contact the Office of Special Counsel by e-mail at hatchact@osc.gov or by phone at 800-85-HATCH before engaging in any related activities.

How do I solicit contributions?

Legally, there are required disclosures. Before engaging with an NALC member—whether at a meeting with other members or in a one-on-one conversation with a non-contributor at an appropriate time and place—all solicitations should begin with the following disclosure printed below. It may be provided in print or read aloud.

By making a contribution to the Letter Carrier Political Fund, you are doing so voluntarily with the understanding that your contribution is not a condition of membership in the National Association of Letter Carriers or of employment by the Postal Service, nor is it part of union dues. You have a right to refuse to contribute without any reprisal. The Letter Carrier Political Fund will use the money it receives to contribute to candidates for federal office and undertake other political spending as permitted by law. Your selection shall remain in full force and effect until canceled. Contributions to the Letter Carrier Political Fund are not deductible for federal income tax purposes. Federal law prohibits the Letter Carrier Political Fund from soliciting contributions from individuals who are not NALC members, executive and administrative staff or their families. Any contribution received from such an individual will be refunded to that contributor. Federal law requires us to use our best efforts to collect and report the name, mailing address, occupation and name of employer of individuals whose contributions exceed $200 per calendar year. Any guideline amount is merely a suggestion, and an individual is free to contribute more or less than the guideline suggests, and the union will not favor or disadvantage anyone by reason of the amount of their contribution or their decision not to contribute.

The best way to educate another member about the importance of LCPF is through a one-on-one conversation. The following are permissible ways of soliciting—with the solicitation language included, of course.

- ✓ Flyers
- ✓ Mailers
- ✓ Emails
- ✓ Newsletters
- ✓ By phone
- ✓ In person
- ✗ 50/50 raffles may violate the law in your state and NALC advises against them.

How do I actually contribute?

- PostalEASE
- Electronic Funds Transfer
- Office of Personnel Management (OPM) annuity
- Check*
- Cash*

*Specific processes apply. Please contact the NALC Department of Legislative and Political Affairs for more information on the above methods and on where and when it is appropriate to solicit non-contributors.

Listed below are the 2019 donors to the Letter Carrier Political Fund. The list is sorted first by state, then branch, then alphabetically. Each state and branch is shown with the percentage of NALC members who donated and the average donation amount.

Some donors choose to give by authorizing a deduction of a few dollars from each paycheck to go directly to the Political Fund each pay period. Others give with automatic deductions from a retirement annuity or from a bank account. Most of the funds the Political Fund receives each year come from automatic donations. It's the easiest way to give and it provides a steady source of support.

Donations may also come in the form of one-time gifts by cash or check.

In this list, the total amount given by a donor last year, including automatic deductions and any additional one-time donations, is listed with each donor's name.

If you aren't already a supporter of the Letter Carrier Political Fund, please go to nalc.org/pac to learn how to set up automatic contributions or use one of the forms starting on page 20.

"My thanks goes out to all the generous donors to the Letter Carrier Political Fund in 2019," NALC President Fredric Rolando said. "I urge every NALC member to follow in their footsteps and give in 2020."
